

FALCONER'S GUILD

Damn mysterious lot, the Falconers. You ask a common man in the marketplace about them, I'll wager you see a blank face and little else. I only know what little I do by keeping my ear to the streets, like. Word is they were formed from a bunch of mercenaries, old scouts from the armies marching in the Century Wars.

One thing's for sure though – they've made real money hiring themselves out to the nobility. Their great birds are a popular accompaniment in bloodsport hunting, and fiercely fashionable amongst the aristocracy. That was their first foot on the ladder, and they soon banded together to form a team. Don't blame 'em. Fair to say that life on the pitch has to be a lot better than living at the whim of some inbred lordling.

No one really knows what the connection is between the Falconers and Hunters, but rumour down the pub is that Devana and Theron have been seen huddled together, talking until the early hours, like. If you asked me to put money on it, I'd wager they have a past at the very least. 'Course, I've never been one to gossip, have I?
